THE CARNIVAL AT FLORENCE.-A corresondent of the Commercial Advertiser thus vrites from Florence:

writes from Florence:

The carnival drags this year under a fatal depression. All the wonted guyety of the season appears to have exploded with those bombs. The shop windows are crowded with grotesque masks and apparel, but none of them appear in the streets. It was reported that the adherents of the fugility Duke intended to take advantage of the confusion of the masking days, and that the government had taken extraordinary precautions for preserving the reace of the city. government had taken extraordinary precautions for preserving the peace of the city.—
The bare suspicion that mischief was plotting, was enough to dampen the popular spirit. No one knew what might happen, and every one dreaded the worst. The liberals would not mask, from fear of the consequences; and the anti-liberals refrained, from fear of getting themselves into an unpleasant scrape; so between the two factions the whole fun of the season is spoiled. I have seen, however, one mask in the street, a man dressed in extensive crinoline pursued by a crowd of boys. The aproar was considerable for a few minutes; but the joke didn't take, and the unsuccessful mask departed shortly for "parts unknown." There will be a good many balls next week and the week following; and it is doubtful whether the people will be able to keep their spirits so tightly bottled up through the whole season. If no more bombs explode, and nothing occurs at the talls to disturb the peace, we may yet at the balls to disturb the peace, we may yet see some fun going on in these solemn streets.

The weather was such been a difficult question to answer-which lawyers. was the densest, the fog or the darkness; and these, with the mud and drizzle, formed a quartette of objections which resulted in a ery slim house. The performance was not however slighted

Her ramage is icv. but, like that article, clear and ransparent: artistic, but without feeling. As a vocalist, we know of no one in Milwankee with a purer register, or more accurate style. Her rendition is precision itself, and with a remarkably flexible voice, it is to be regretted that there is not more of the glow and warmth of the Italian school in her singing.

ERALLY .- This is the last day of winter. To-morrow, March 1st, is the first day of spring. Yesterday at 12 o'clock there was a visit of eight cows in front of my house, reminding me of past and gone days. WM. C. ROGELES.

The Republican Party and its Organization. For the Sentinel

Mr. EDITOR-Sir: - Believing, with thousands of my fellow-citizens, that the Repub lican party is the only living, active, true and proper National, Liberty-loving, Union-saving, Law-and-Order party-the only party which has it in its power, and whose true aim and scope it is, to successfully withstand and check the wild, dangerous, revolutionary and mad career of the Sham Democratic proslavery oligarchy of this nation, in its unjust, unwarrantable and unconstitutional enthe liberties and constitutional guarantees of the people, as well as upon the vested rights principles. of the States. And, furthermore, believing that the approaching Presidential campaign will determine whether Freedom or Slavery shall predominate in the councils of the nation-whether this shall Truly, really, practically, be the "land of the free and the home of the brave";-or whether the black banner of human bondage, all biotched with a brother's blood, shall be unfurled all over our land, ileunting its hateful folds in the bre-zes of every Territory and State now free, thus blotting out the gushing smalight of freedom to the down-trodden and oppressed al! over the civilized world.

Sir, believing and feeling all this, I desire to urge upon the attention of the Republicans of the State of Wisconsin, of every State in our broad Union, the imperative necessity of prompt and complete organization in every county, town, borough and school district; an organization that shall reach every voter, every citizen, every man; an organization and a work which shall cause every man to feel, and think, and act as though the hope and salvation of our common country, with good things. They don't interfere with legisall her precious, God-given, blood-bought lation; they prepare the public mind for the laws, privileges and institutions, depended upon his individual action; an organization which shall bring to the polls, in November next, in one solid phalanx, side by side, shoulder to shoulder, and heart to heart, every Republican, of whatever party name, or country, or creed.

With such an organization and such work, Free Labor, Free Soil, Free Speech, and a Free Press, are certain to triumph.

With such an organization the foul spirit of Disunion, now bold and rampant, will of the Session. Our School lands are now hide its diminished head and scaly front—the being stripped by Chicago knaves and oth—black flag of Slavery trail in the dust, while ers, who can easily avade the present law. black flag of Slavery trail in the dust, while far above the unshaken battlements of the The bill was opposed by Democrats, as too country "in triumph shall wave," bearing can be too stringent, which is, in its intent no more than a Circuit Judge, and they are apon its gerg-ous folds the sentiment dear to and wording, merely for the protection of called upon to discharge five times the every American heart, "The Union must School lands. To the attainment of so desirable a result, I would suggest the following plan as most likely to secure it:

It should also be made a part of the duty of each Town Vigilance Committee to report to the officers of the County the number and political complexion of all the voters in their several towns, and of the County Clubs to report to the State Central Committee of their respective States the number and politics of the voters in each County by some

If the foregoing as some similar plan, be followed in every State, where the Republican party has an organization as a party, success is certain. llarper's Ferry, Isrepressible Dred Scott, &c.-School Lands. Correspondence of the Sentinel.

Madison, Feb. 27th, 1860.

DEAR SENTINEL:-Friday evening was the Senate, on John Brown, Harper's Ferry, the irrepressible Dred Scott decision, and other black subjects. CHARLEY RODOLF, one of the immortal twenty-two, who voted against DougLas in the Democratic Convention, on the 22d inst., put on his boxing gloves and walked into the ring. He said many of the Republicans were honorable men, and to them he appealed to come up and meet the question fairly; he stood with JAMES BUCHANAN, and believed that Slavery existed by virtue of the Constitution; he believed in the decision of the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case; he believed that eyery citizen had a right to take his property into the Territories, his slaves as well as his horses and cattle; he took issue with the Republican party on the question of State Rights; he did not believe we could control the Union; he believed the Republicans were in the main good, honest men, and would back down on the question of State Rights in about four months. He did not think the people understood this question; we are not an independent sovereignty; there is no such thing as a citizen of Wisconsin after he moved to another State; he he read an article in a German Republican paper against the doctrine of State Rights because that doctrine would be used to protect Slavery; he thought that man could stand on his platform. Robotr's hatred of niggers is intense, the' he is not very white-akinned, and his hair is quite curly. His admission that in about four months we should have a man on the track who would turn the slave-drivers out of the capital, and establish a Republican form of Government, and then we should not care so much about State Rights, because we should have United States Rights, was significant, as showing that leading Democrats already see the "impending crisis"

Senator Curtis made a very elegant speach in reply to RodoLF. He read extracts from the Fathers to prove that they were opposed to slavery. He said if we had followed WASHINGTON's advice, not a slave would now eurse our soil; had no backward course been taken we should not now be compelled to weep over the desolations and blighting influences of the slave system; Yorktewn would have been what New York is, and Virginia the Empire State of the confederacy. abounding in wealth and prosperity; the Senator had charged the Republican leaders with originating the statement of the "irrepressible conflict" doctrine, but he pointed to Democratic authority for that sentiment, the > INWARIABLE. Republican Banquet in New York. The Republicans of the Eighteenth Ward, New York, had a banquet on the evening of the 22d, when numerous speeches were made by leading Republicans of the city. The following letters were read from Gov. Mon-

GAN and Mr. Speaker PENNINGTON:

SCATE OF NEW YORK,
EXECUTIVE DEFARMANT.
ALBANY, Feb. 21, 1860. ALELIOT C. COWDIN, Esq., Chairman, &c.—
Dear Sir:—It would afford me very great pleasure to unite with the Republicans of the Kighteenth Ward in celebratine the pleasure to unite with the Mepublicans of the highteenth Ward in celebrating the anniversary of the birth of Washington.

There is everything to encourage us in the political aspect of the country, and I fully believe that we can attain, as we shall deserve, success in the approaching national contest, by united and consolidated effort—with you in person, but I send you as a sentiment: The Republican Party, faithful to its principles it will fulfill all the gazzaniecs of the Constitution, an will demand that they shall be fc. alled by others.

1 am, with great respect, Very truly yours, E. D. Morgan.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, Peb. 14, 1860.

DEAR SIR: I have received your very kind invitation, as Chairman of your Committee, to attend a meeting of the Republicans of the Eighteenth Ward, in the city of New York, on the 22d inst. While it would be a source of great pleasure, could I be with you at that time, you perceive my pressing duties here entirely forbid it.

While I do not think and the control of the while I do not think any man is called upon to surrender principle to expediency, yet there are occasions, and that time is now with us, when all sound and patriotic citizens should exercise calminess and moderation, and avoid, so far as practicable, every unand avoid, so far as practicable, every unnecessary excitement.

The perpetuity of the Union should be inscribed on every banner, and never yielded but in the last extremity. For myself, I have no fears, depending as I do on that love of country which pervedes our people. As our institutions were established for us by wise and noble ancestors, it would seem a sad event if we could not presurve so valuable an inheritance. Have no fears—our country will yet remain one people.

I beg to offer you my best thanks for your invita ion, with the following sentiment:

Our Country and har Free Institutions—May our Union be perpensal.

Country consists of the constraint of the constr

mentioned quite freely as a suitable candidate for Chief Justice, and not wishing to accept of this position for the same reason devoted to an entertaining discussion, in which should deter many others from accepting it, whose names have also been mentioned quite freely, which is owing to my incapability to fill the place as it should be filled. Being desirious to see the position occupied by the most competent man, and having no personal desire in advancing the claims of any particular candidate, and being actuated by the best of motives, and not desiring to have my name appear publicly in | this controversy, for I desire to say (and not offend my friends who are candidates,) that many of the names mentioned quite freely for this position are not sufficiently qualified. The office of Chief Justice should not be given to any lawyer who may desire it. The electors of this State cannot be too cautious in making this important selection. The Convention should nominate no man whose legal ability is not equal to those new on the Supreme Bench. The Convention should, if possible, nominate a man who is superior in legal ability to our present Supreme Judges, if such a man can be found. The Chief Justice should not only be chief in position, but chief in legal ability. Hence the importance of selecting the ablest jurist in the State for this post.

There is one gentleman whose name has been mentioned quite freely in connection with this office, who is not a candidate, and who does not covet nor desire it. He has repeatedly declined accepting positions of trust and importance, and I personally know that he has no desire whatever for office. Another reason: he does not desire to break up or interfere with his practice, which is far more lucrative and extensive than any other attorney's in the State. As an index to the amount of legal business he is now doing, I will mention one fact only, which will go to show how he is appreciated as a jurist. Out of forty-one cases before the Supreme Court from the second Circuit, be is the attorney in twenty of these cases, being nearly half of the business before that

Court from the Second Circuit. In the same proportion is he represented in the Courts below, aside from a better representation than any other attorney in other Circuits throughout the State. His success at the Bar is unusual; his opinion on law is more safe, and necessarily more correct than any other jurist I know of, and far more so than many who enjoy an older raputation as able jurists. I know of no one who has a clearer head and who is better for tified against errors, and more, who is so free from objections; none who has come torward so rapidly in the profession. I heartily be lieve that he, as a juriet, has no peer in the State. Jurists who occupy higher positions than I, have also expressed the same opin

WINFIELD SMITH, of your city, is the sentleman referred to; who is regarded by all the Judges and Attorneys outside of your eity, who are acquainted with his legal ability, with more than usual favor.

I also understand from some of your prominent Attorneys that he is so regarded in Milwankee. It is those Attorneys who are best acquainted with his legal ability, that speak the most favorably of his qualifications. I am credibly informed that Mr. Smiru desires not to be considered a caudidate, and will not be so considered. I think it would be advisable, if the Convention should be satisfied that his qualifications are superior to all others, to nominate Winfield become a law, which establishes a rule of Smith for Chief Justice. I believe that his him that he has no right to decline the unanimous wish of his party. visions for increasing the salaries of our Supreme Judges. As it is now, they receive aibility. It cannot be expected that an attorney with such a jucrative and extensive practice as Wingight Smith enjoys can be persuaded to secept such a position for the year, when his profession brings him in as many thousands; consequently, it necessarily follows that our best and ablest jurists are excluded from occupying a position on the Supreme Bench, and thus the people are deprived of the services of the very men who, above all others, should serve them in this important capacity. Other States pay their Supreme Judges somewhere near what their services are worth. The amount, in no case should be less than five thousand dollars. JUDGE ----

THE KENOSHA TELEGRAPH tells a sorrowful tale of a man in that city who sunk from social eminence to destitution and death through the influence of intemperance. The Telegraph says: "During many a winter night within the past month, his bed has been a small quantity of straw, in a wagon under an old shed. He had children in other States, grown up, He had children in other States, grown up, occupying respectable positions in society—one a daughter, now the wife of a chergyman. But the remembrance of his better days would not allow him to overcome his pride of feeling, to let his children know his destitution and wretchedness. Last Wednesday he died. He was buried:—no funeral services; no bell tolled; no friends followed his body to its last resting place. Barely enough help volunteered to lower his confined reounsels were sought, and whose society

Alrendy croakers have commenced, and we find in many of our exchanges phragraphs giving unfavorable accounts of the growing wheat crop, but the best suttenticated accounts from wheat growing States, say that there is a better show for a good crop this, than any former season, for years. In this part of the country at all events, the growing wheat looks well, and there is no doubt that it has been much benefitted by the snows. Very little of it has been winter killed, and we look for cheerful countenances among the farmers next fail. CROP PROSPECTS EAST, -The Pittsburgh Post says
